- Sit or lay comfortably in your yard or park and look closely at the grass, plants, and sky. Or walk around and see many things all at once.
- Notice the plants, insects, and animals you can name. Write about them!
- Be sure to include drawings of what you see! Record the details like the day, the weather, the size or where you saw things.
- Look in a book or online to find out about the unfamiliar plants, insects and animals you see. Write down the names you just learned!
